Risk and Reward Profile

About the indicator: The indicator does not constitute a measure of any risk of capital loss, but shows the relationship between risk and possible return of an investment in the fund. The categorization is determined by the fluctuations in the Fund's net asset value over the past five years.

The funds category: The Fund is ranked at 5, which means medium risk for both rises and falls in value. The lowest category of risk does not mean risk free. The risk categorization is complex, for instance category 2 is not twice the risk compared to category 1. The fund's risk category is not guaranteed and may change over time since risk categories reflects the fund's share price fluctuations based on historical data. Historical data may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the fund.

The equity market is generally characterized by high risk, but also by the possibility of high returns. As a result of the Fund's opportunities to change the allocation between the equity and fixed income markets, both the risk and the opportunities for returns may increase and decrease in relation to what the indicator has historically captured.

Material risks which are not adequately captured by the indicator:

Currency risk: The fund invests globally in fund units that are priced in different currencies. When the fund invests in assets denominated in currencies different from the reference currency, a currency risk arises. The fund may therefore be affected by exchange rate fluctuations.

Credit risk: The Fund may invest in fixed income related funds, and can consequently be subject to credit risk. Credit risk means the risk that the credit rating of an issuer or counterpart decreases, which could affect the value and the liquidity of the asset. The credit risk is not fully reflected in the indicator.
